copal Church last evening at 6 o'clock, when the nuptials of Miss Florence Stanley Atkins and Mr. George McGregor Goodridge were celebrated, the Ray. Dr. W. E. Evans being the celebrant.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas S. Atkins, has for years been an active member of Monumental Church choir, which, robed in vestiments, preceded the advance of the bridal party to the altar, singing "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden." The beautiful hymn. "At Cannan's Wedding Feast." was the recessional, and during the ceremony the church organist. Mr. Jenkins, played "in The Fragrant Summer Time." The alsles and chancel of the church were vanvased in white and the altar was decorated with palms and white candles. The bride was given away by her uncle. Major John M. Prior, of Fayetteville, N. C.

Miss Lillian agains, the maid of honor, wore white chiffon and carried a bouquet of maidenhair ferns. Mr. Harry Goodridge, of Norfolk was best man; the groomsmen being Mr. Robert Pegram. Mr./ Richard Taylor, Mr. Hunter Bell and Mr. Percy Jones, of Norfolk; Mr. Jack Prior, of New York, and Mr. Frank McCarthy, of this city.

The bride was gowned in white panne crepe de chine, trimmed with white velvet roses, having chenille stems. The round yoke of her corsage was finished with a point lace berthe and her flowers were illies of the valley.

Following the church ceremonial, a reception for the brida, wore black crepe de chine and, her sister, Mrs. Richard Meade, was in pale gray moire. House decorations were in palms, ferns and pink and white carnations, a placque of the pink flowers forming the center ornament of the table in the dining room.

TWO KINDS OF PIES.

What is a Pie? A Pie is a lot of Gooseberries, Squash, Chicken or other Fruit, entirely surrounded by Crust. How many kinds of Pie are there?

What are they? Good Pies and Bad Pies.

What is the Difference? Good Pies have their Crust made with Cottolene, while Bad Pies have their Crust made with Lard.

Why is the Cottolene Crust better? Because it tastes better and also is more Digestible and Wholesome.

Moral: "Take care of the Crust and the Pie will take care of itself."

AN INDIAN SERENADE

By SHELLEY.

Percey Bysshe Shelley, the poet, born in 1782, died in 1822, was of a fine family in Sussex. England. His grandfather, Bysshe Shelley, was born in Newark, N. J., but after making a large fortune in this country, settled in England. Percy went to Eton and Oxford, and was known in his youth as "mad Shelley" and "Shelley the Atheist." He was expelled from Oxford for writing a pamphlet in which he claimed that nothing can prove the existence of a delty, save self-revelation. He had a lively imagination, an erratic famey, a capacity for profound emotional expressions, and a contempt for the despotism of custom in all things. Yet he was ordinarily gentle, kindly and retiring. His father disowned him, for a time, after his expulsion from college, and he was supported by contributions from the poeks money of his four sisters, sent to him by one of ineir schoolmates, a Methodist minister's daughter, with whom he promptly fell in love, He married her, but soon repented, as he said: "Because she could not feel poetry and understand philosophy." After a few years, he made a financial settlement up in her. separated from her and formed a connection with Mary Godwin, whose attitude toward poetry and philosophy was more to his tastle. After the death of his wife, he married Miss Godwin. With Lord Byron and a sixter of Miss Godwin's they lived for many years in Hally, on the gulf of Spezia, and there Shelley did most of the work that made him famous. Like so many poets of his time, Shelley was an ardent friend of liberty. It is significant that at the time of our war of 1812 with England, he wrote a highly eulogistic tibute to American liberty, in which he characterized George III as "a villain ring." Selley was drawned at the age of 39 by the upsetting of his sailboat in a squall upon the gulf of Spezia. It was said that to beat was intentionally sunk by Italian plicates, who had expected to get a large amount of money which they supposed to be on board. The wandering airs they faint On the dark, the silent stream-And the champak odors fail Like sweet thoughts in a dream; The nightingale's complaint,

It dies upon her heart;-As I must die on thine, O belov-ed as thou art!

(Special to The Times-Dispatch)
ROANOKE, VA. Feb. 4.—Two of the men who robbed the Rocky Mount National Bank were captured here to-night and $1,200 of the $3,700 recovered. The men got on the Roanoke and Southern train at Wortz, twenty-one miles south of Roanoke, this evening. Conductor Johnson notleed something suspicious about the men and his suspicious were confirmed when they jumped off the train at the Campbell Avenue crossing. The conductor went and found Detective Baldwin and a search was made for the men. One was found in a restaurant at supper and the conductor and detective waited until he came out and followed him about a half mile from the city, when he was placed under arrest. At the station-house he gave his name as William Raymond and said he halled from Baltimore. Search was then made for his partner and he was found a short distance from where the other was arrested. He attempted to escape, but his overcoat pockets were weighted down with silver. He was taken to the station-house and six bags, each containing $100 in silver, were found in his pockets. He gave his name as D. J. Downey and in his pocket was a card of membership in the Bricklayers' Union of Norfolk. Near where he was captured $600 more was found in the overcoat of Raymond, which had been left when he came to Roanoke to get a linch. Downey is a man of about forty and looks like a crook, while Raymond is not more than twenty.
